The Inner Lade. This picture is a fine example of the magnificent coast scenery in the vicinity of Trondhjem. The whole coast line from Stavanger to the North Cape is scattered with thousands of islands and rocks, forming a natural breakwater to the mainland, through the middle of which the steamers which traverse the Norwegian Fjords thread their way.

Staid in bed this morning as I was tired. Frank came down in the afternoon. He thought Bela present beautiful. Went to station with Frank and as train was late we walked up town and there was quite a heavy fog, one could not see across the street. Went again to station and Jennie Roch & Julia Monahan, two school girls who I went to high school came over and I introduced them to Frank, and we had quite a jolly time talking. Train so late that I came home and Jennie Roch came part way with me. Weather is quite cold
